NEED TO KNOW: BONDS AND LEVIES ON THE APRIL 2026 BALLOT

Proposition 9: Anchorage School District One-Time Tax Levy

Anchorage's public schools serve thousands of students every day and play a central role in preparing the city's future workforce. The Anchorage School District is facing a projected funding shortfall of $90 million for the 2026–27 school year, which would eliminate more than 500 staff positions, and result in increased classroom sizes, cuts to athletic programs, and more.

This one-time education tax levy gives voters the opportunity to consider additional funding to help fill that gap, which would help maintain classroom stability and educational services during the upcoming school year. It includes:

A one-time, $11.8 million education tax levy.

$27.40 per $100,000 in assessed property value.

Funding to retain more than 80 educators, helping to reduce projected class size increases by 50%.
